About IFHE

The International Federation for Home Economics is the only worldwide organization concerned with Home Economics and Consumer Studies.

It was founded in 1908 to serve as a platform for international exchange within the field of Home Economics.

IFHE is an International Non Governmental Organization (INGO), having consultative status with the United Nations (ECOSOC, FAO, UNESCO and UNICEF) and with the Council of Europe.

Aims of IFHE

- Provide opportunities for global networking among professionals
- Promote the recognition of Home Economics in the everyday lives of individuals and families
- Promote continuing education in Home Economics
- Provide opportunities through practice, research and professional sharing that lead to improving the quality of everyday life for individuals, families and households worldwide

About KHEA

In 1947, the Korean Home Economics Association (KHEA) was founded at Sung Shin High School and the first President and Executive Committee members of KHEA were elected. The number of total members of the society is now up to more than 1,700.

The Korean Home Economics Association (KHEA) is composed of the Assembly, the Executive Committee, and Advisory Members. The policy-making body of KHEA is the Executive Committee, whose members are elected officers and members-at-large elected by the Assembly. The KHEA has its headquarters in Seoul with branches in every region of the country. Through the regional organization, academic research is conducted with results contributing to the communities.

The aims of the Korean Home Economics Association (KHEA) are to contribute to the development and propagation of Home Economics and related area. Korean Home Economics Association (KHEA) is publishing two journals: "Family and Environment Research" and "International Journal of Home Economics".

Venue

Daejeon

Daejeon is the fifth-largest city in Korea and its industrial heart, producing everything from tires to textiles to pharmaceuticals.

Only about 2 hours from Seoul by car, it is a major transportation hub and one of Korea's main centers for science and technology.

Welcome Message

From President of IFHE

Carol Warren

*President (2012-2016)
International Federation for Home Economics
(IFHE)*

It gives me great pleasure to welcome you to the XXIII IFHE World Congress 2016. Whether you are a passionate home economics professional or an interested allied professional, we look forward to your participation in the global conversation that is IFHE World Congress.

As indicated by our theme for 2016 – Hope and Happiness: The role of Home Economics in the pursuit of Hope & Happiness for individuals and communities now and in the future – we as home economists recognise that our profession is a key component of hope and happiness – critical for the wellbeing of individuals, families and communities. We also seek creative and innovative ways to communicate this message widely and effectively.

As the only worldwide organisation concerned with home economics and consumer studies, it is imperative that IFHE seizes every opportunity to speak in full voice.

World Congress gives us that opportunity. Since 1908, professionals, scholars and educators in home economics and allied fields have come together every four years to learn, share and inspire. Our consultative status with the United Nations and the Council of Europe gives us so much potential to extend congress outcomes and to see our resolutions put into action.

We are pleased and excited to be staging the IFHE World Congress in the Asian region for the first time since 2004. Daejeon, Korea, has built a reputation for the hosting of global conferences and is a hub for technology, education, research and development. Our host organisation, Korean Home Economics Association has organised a wonderful program of professional, cultural and social activities.

We look forward to building a conversation around home economics at the XXIII IFHE World Congress 2016 in Daejeon.

From Chairperson of IFHE 2016

Mee Sok Park

*Vice President (2014-2018)
International Federation for Home Economics
(IFHE)*

On behalf of the Organizing Committee, I am pleased to welcome you all to this XXIII IFHE World Congress 2016 which will take place from July 31 to August 6, 2016 in Daejeon, Korea. To our great delight, this is the first time the World Congress takes place in Korea since it was established in 1908.

Under the theme of "Hope & Happiness," the XXIII IFHE World Congress 2016 is organizing a wide range of programs focusing on the role of Home Economics in the pursuit of hope and happiness for individuals and communities now and in the future. Through this congress, we expect to maximize the well-being of individuals and families with hope and happiness, to bring wellbeing by enhancing the understanding and knowledge of humans and their physical and social environments. We are ready to provide a diverse array of opportunities for knowledgeable exchange and professional networking between colleagues from different parts of the world. Indeed, this year's meeting brings together all of you from across the globe to share insights and discuss current issues confronting each country.

I would like to express my sincere gratitude to participants, speakers, and invited guests who came all the way to Daejeon, Korea. And my special thanks go to our organizing committee members for their dedication and support to make this congress successful over the last four years. Your contributions greatly help us make the XXIII IFHE World Congress 2016 happen.

We believe the Congress will be a highly rewarding educational and networking experience for all participants. Also, we hope this congress will provide excellent opportunities for you to experience the culture of Korea.

From Minister of Gender Equality and Family

Eun-hee Kang

*Minister
Gender Equality and Family*

I extend my warmest welcome to all of you to the XXIII IFHE World Congress 2016, which takes place in Daejeon, Korea from July 31 to August 6 this year. We are extremely honored to host this prestigious Congress, and will make every effort to ensure that it is a pleasant and enriching experience for all participants.

Our society is going through rapid change as a result of industrialism and economic growth, and in the process, people are increasingly yearning for their own happiness. To this end, various studies and policies are being carried out with the ultimate goal of enhancing happiness for individuals. As the Minister of Gender Equality and Family, I can only hope that the source of that happiness stems from our homes and families.

In order to achieve such goals, the Ministry is putting much effort into improving family policies such as those supporting work-life balance, to enhance women's rights, protect the youth and young adults, and foster physical and emotional wellbeing for everyone.

In this regard, we expect that XXIII IFHE World Congress 2016 will not only provide an opportunity for scholars, researchers and administrative officers to share their studies and policies, but also act as a stepping stone to bettering societies all around the world. I also hope that we all take this Congress as an opportunity to share our vision, ideas, and knowledge with respected scholars in their fields from all over the world.

Thanks to the devoted efforts of all distinguished colleagues and friends, I can say with conviction that this Congress will be a huge success. It is my pleasure to spend this week with all of you, and I would like to take this opportunity to thank you for travelling far. Welcome to Daejeon, Korea!

From Mayor of Daejeon Metropolitan City

Sun-taik Kwon

*Mayor
Daejeon Metropolitan City*

I hereby sincerely congratulate the XXIII IFHE World Congress 2016 and welcome honored guests to Daejeon. It is also a privilege to hold the event where professionals and experts of home economics from all around the world gather together in Daejeon, Korea.

Home is the foundation of our life. It is a space where our tired body and mind can get healed with love and also can obtain drive for growth. No one can simply find a warmer and more comfortable place than their home anywhere in the world. Thus, when the foundation of one's home collapses, it means that their society and nation will also suffer. Any economic growth or scientific and technological development will become a castle in the sand.

The main theme of the congress is "Hope and Happiness." They can be found in many places, but those in one's home are the biggest.

I hope the congress turn out to be an opportunity to improve the awareness on homes, which is the foundation of hope and happiness, and also to suggest many different ways to enhance the happiness of all the citizens of the world. I also wish that all attendees here working in the field of home economics share their cases for more active cooperation.

Daejeon, where you are now, is located in the center of the Republic of Korea. It also is the model city that implemented the idea of 'home friendly' and 'woman friendly' among the cities in Korea. I believe that the congress will be the milestone for Daejeon to leap a step higher as a 'home friendly city'. Daejeon will keep working on making our home a healthier and happier place. We will also do our best to support and pay attention to home economics experts.

There are lots of diverse attractions in Daejeon. Although it is not a long period of time, but I hope you could make many memorable moments with colorful tastes of Daejeon.

Once again, we sincerely welcome all our honored guests here for the XXIII IFHE World Congress 2016, and I wish all of you a good health and prosperity. Thank you very much.

From President of KHEAHae-Kyung Chung

*President
Korean Home Economics Association (KHEA)*

On behalf of the Korean Home Economics Association, I warmly welcome your participation in the XXIII IFHE World Congress 2016. The Korean Home Economics Association is pleased to stage IFHE World Congress in Daejeon, Korea, where we will promote a successful event with the utmost sincerity.

Established in 1947, the Korean Home Economics Association has become one of the leading organizations in Korea, built on 69 years of tradition and history in Korea. We would sincerely appreciate former presidents, executive directors, and members who contributed and supported us during challenging situations to sponsor the IFHE World Congress in Korea.

XXIII IFHE World Congress 2016 is a global scholarly event for scholars and educators in the field of home economics from the world's six continents come together to transcend regions, generations, and classes. The new role of home economics has been highlighted in this era of the convergence of knowledge and information. The role of home economics in the field of human ecology is huge as the emphasis is on human life and welfare through the family. We are now witnessing a time of transition for the new paradigm in home economics. We wish to embrace this new paradigm in home economics by bringing together scholarly communications under the main theme of the IFHE World Congress: "Hope and Happiness."

We believe Korea is the ideal location for this congress as participants will be able to experience beautiful family cultures and traditions along with modernity and creativeness, creating unforgettable memories during your stay in Korea.

Again, we wholeheartedly welcome your participation in the XXIII IFHE World Congress 2016 in Daejeon, Korea.

From President of KHEEAJaesoon Cho

*President
Korean Home Economics Education Association (KHEEA)*

On behalf of the Korean Home Economics Education Association, I am pleased to welcome you to the International Conference on Home Economics Education. Korean Home Economics Education Association hosts 2016 IFHE Pre-Congress Conference on Home Economics Education in conjunction with the 2016 Korean Home Economics Education Association's Annual Conference.

Happiness for individuals, families, and communities, which is the theme of XXIII IFHE World Congress 2016, is also what Home Economics education has pursued to practice in elementary and secondary school.

Home Economics subject has been fundamental in any human life and will be more essential to our lives, with paradigm shift from independence to cooperation, it is facing challenges in various aspects worldwide.

The Conference theme puts the spotlight on the 'Current Status and Future Directions of Home Economics Curriculum around the World'. The Plenary sessions of the Conference will address challenges and new prospects of Home Economics Education in the specific cases of each country as well as in general. Key issues of Home Economics Education, such as practical problem focused curriculum, Home Economics teacher education and teaching-learning plans, will be followed with oral and poster presentations. Also special exhibitions will showcase the activities carried out by regional research communities of Korean Home Economics teachers.

I hope you enjoy the conference.

Have a great and fruitful time!

Challenges and Future Directions for Home Economics Education

Virginia B. Vincenti, Ph.D

Professor

Family & Consumer Sciences Department, University of Wyoming (USA)

Biography

Virginia Vincenti is Professor of Human Development and Family Sciences (HDFS) at the University of Wyoming from 1992 to today. Previously she was Program Director of Home Economics Education, University of Massachusetts-Amherst, 1988-1992 and was invited to teach home economics education graduate courses at The Pennsylvania State University and Iowa State University. Because of her involvement in the U.S. critical science movement, she has used practical reasoning, critical thinking, and ethical reasoning in teacher education, HDFS graduate and undergraduate courses, and journal articles and book chapters. She earned her B.S., Mansfield University, Pennsylvania and M.S. and Ph.D., The Pennsylvania State University, all in Home Economics Education. She also earned an undergraduate minor in Chemistry and graduate minor in Individual and Family Studies.

Her research has focused on the history and philosophy of home economics/family and consumer sciences and currently on financial exploitation by family members responsible for managing the affairs of elderly relatives, a growing problem globally. All her research has sought to strengthen professional practice and improve life for individuals, families and society.

Her publications include her dissertation: A History of the Philosophy of Home Economics and co-edited book: Rethinking Home Economics: Women and the history of a Profession, both translated into Japanese, and numerous refereed articles also focused on the history and philosophy and on issues, all related to strengthening the profession. She has also given keynote and numerous research presentations at national and international conferences.

Influenced by the work of Brown and Paolucci's (1979) reconceptualization of home economics, she has used a critical science approach, including practical problems, practical reasoning, critical thinking and ethical reasoning in her teaching and scholarship. She has served as president of the American Association of Family and Consumer Sciences and her state affiliate, and served in various leadership capacities. She also co-chaired numerous consumer conferences.

Towards Hope and Happiness: The Role of Family Policy in Korea

Hee Young Paik

Former Minister of Gender Equality and Family

Professor Emeritus

Department of Foods and Nutrition, Seoul National University (Republic of Korea)

Abstract

According to the UN World Happiness Report 2016, Korea scored 5.8 points out of the perfect score of 10 points, ranking itself 58th among the 157 countries surveyed in happiness index. This score is considerably low given the national power or economic scale of Korea. So what is it that determines happiness of Koreans, who turned out to be not so happy?

The 2013 survey on Korean mindsets and values conducted by the Ministry of Culture, Sports, and Tourism found that "family" was the determinant of happiness for Koreans. The MK Economy, a Korean weekly magazine, carried out a similar survey in 2012, asking respondents, "With whom do you feel the most happiness?", and their answer was "family".

Happiness does not seem to have grown in proportion to economic development, but family is key to happiness for Koreans. This is the reason what gave birth to the family policy in Korea. Family had to face the crisis of care, as it was no longer able to function as the unit of reproduction due to reduction in the family size and increasing women's employment brought about by the industrialization and urbanization. Experience of such crisis formed a social consensus for the need to move away from the previous policy of supporting mainly vulnerable families to the policy of supporting all families of various types. Furthermore, witnessing the power of family's capability to react to the risk of family dissolution amid the economic crisis in late 1990s, Korea became interested in strengthening family healthiness.

The Act on Healthy Family was born in 2004 based on the three main idea that, first, economic development does not necessarily lead to happiness, second, family is the key to happiness in the Korean society, and third, strengthening the healthiness of family is what can bring more happiness to the Korean people. Family policy in Korea is in pursuit of happiness. The Framework Act on Healthy Families, which came into effect in 2004, also notes happiness in its vision.

The Healthy Family Support Centers, which provides customized family support services to reinforce family healthiness and improve family relations, was opened with only three centers in 2004 as a pilot project, but the number jumped to 151 centers in 2015. 2,038,437 people used the center in 2014, a demonstration of an enormous growth only within a decade. In addition, the Act on the Promotion of Creation of Family-Friendly Social Environment was enacted in order to collect the community efforts to enhance the healthiness of individual family. The number of businesses awarded the Best Family Friendly Certificate also increased from 14 in 2008 to 1,363 in 2015. Family, whose functioning was once taken for granted, has now turned into what men and women, business and community need to work together to make it function.

Economy, housing, and employment are main requirements for happiness, but there is more than that. Family policy that aims at strengthening family healthiness and making a society where both men and women can balance work and family is an investment to and an endeavor after hope and happiness.

Biography

Dr. Hee Young Paik is a Professor Emeritus of the Department of Foods and Nutrition, Seoul National University, Seoul, Korea, and the Director of the Center for Gendered Innovations for Science and Technology Researches (GISTeR), Korea Federation of Women's Science and Technology Associations (KOFWST). Dr. Paik received higher education in USA and received Doctor of Science in Nutrition from Harvard School of Public Health. She worked as a faculty member at Seoul National University until February, 2016 and became a professor emeritus in March, 2016.

Dr. Paik's research area has been focused on evaluation of Korean traditional diet in nutrition and health of modern society. Assessment of Korean typical diet poses special problems due to high consumption of mixed dishes and by the custom of sharing dishes at the dining table. Dr. Paik developed computerized dietary survey system (DES) suitable for Korean diet in diverse settings and population. The system is well recognized and a joint effort to adapt the system for international collaborative research for Asian region is underway. She published more than 150 papers in peer-reviewed journals and several books in nutrition and home economics area. Her achievement was recognized by Excellent Research Awards in Science (2005), National Honor for High Achievements in Science (2008), Asia-Pacific Clinical Nutrition Award (2009) and Blue Medal of National Merit (2012).

Dr. Paik has been active in professional organizations in home economics, nutrition, and gender in science. She served as presidents of the Korean Home Economics Association (KHEA) (2003), the Korean Nutrition Society (2005), and KOFWST (2014-2015). During 2005-2009, Dr. Paik was the Council Member of the International Union of Nutritional Sciences (IUNS). Her leadership is recognized as crucial for development of recent family policies and programs in Korea. With members of KHEA, she led activities to pass the Framework Act on Healthy Families and establishment of NGO, Citizens for Healthy Families. She served as the Minister of Gender Equality and Family, Republic of Korea, 2009-2011.

Recently, Dr. Paik extended her activities to become a leader for women in science and technology in Korea and actively engaged in international team of gendered innovations in science and technology researches. Under her leadership, KOFWST established GISTeR and is leading a research team including diverse areas of science and technology.

Hope: Because We Must

Peter O'Connor

Professor

School of Critical Studies in Education, University of Auckland (New Zealand)

Abstract

There is a moral imperative as teachers for us to hope. To hope for young people, rather than fear them. To hope for a better world so we might in imagining it, recreate it. To hope that the work we do builds citizens who have belief and faith that the world can be remade. For over thirty years I have worked as a teacher in prisons, psychiatric wards and most recently in earthquake zones. In these places teaching is an act of defiance and hope. In working with sensitive issues including family violence and child abuse with young people I have worked so that pedagogy of hope might be realised in everyday classrooms. Hope needs to be reconsidered as an educational basic, as important as literacy and numeracy for surviving the trauma of twenty first century living.

Biography

Professor O'Connor is an internationally recognised expert in applied theatre. His research has focused primarily on using applied theatre as a public education medium to address major social issues including public health, gender equity in schools and the development of inclusive, empathetic and critical school cultures. Recent applied theatre research includes national programmes on preventing family violence and child abuse and parenting programmes in Youth Justice Facilities.

His work in Christchurch following the February earthquake has led to UNESCO funded research and programme development. In 2012 he was named the Griffith University School of Education and Professional Studies Alumnus of the Year. He is currently engaged in the ongoing debates about charter schools and the nature of quality public education. Peter was previously the National Education Manager for the Race Relations Office and the National Project manager for the Like Minds campaign with the Mental Health Foundation. His 2003 PhD on his work in forensic psychiatric units won the 2006 AATE Distinguished Dissertation Award in Washington DC.

Consumer Policy in Comparative Perspective: Lessons in Humility and Hope

Robert N. Mayer

Professor

Department of Family and Consumer Studies, University of Utah (USA)

Abstract

Humility results from knowing that no single country or region of the world has a monopoly on consumer well-being. Rather, innovative public policies aimed at improving consumer well-being have originated in many countries. This presentation will review the diverse national sources of these policies.

Hope can be derived by recognizing the speed with which successful consumer policies spread among countries, typically becoming stronger and more effective in the process. Examples include auto safety, tobacco control, regulation of marketing directed at young children, and environmental protection. Hope is reinforced by examining the progression of international consumer protection standards, especially those articulated by the United Nations.

Biography

Dr. Robert N. Mayer is a professor in the Department of Family and Consumer Studies at the University of Utah. He earned his PhD in sociology from the University of California at Berkeley. Dr. Mayer's research has exposed consumer problems, evaluated consumer policy interventions, and examined the U.S. and global consumer movements. In 2013, Dr. Mayer published (with Larry Kirsch) Financial Justice: The People's Campaign to End Lender Abuse (Praeger, 2013) – an analysis of how the landmark Consumer Financial Protection Bureau was established in the U.S. More recently, he was co-editor (with Stephen Brobeck) of Watchdogs and Whistleblowers, a research guide to consumer activism worldwide. Dr. Mayer has won a number of teaching awards at the University of Utah, the most recent of which was the Honors College Professorship (2013-14). Dr. Mayer has been a board member of several consumer organizations, including the Consumer Federation of America, the American Council on Consumer Interests, and National Consumers League. The IFHE World Congress will mark Dr. Mayer's second visit to South Korea. In 2005, he delivered an address at the 40th anniversary celebration of the College of Human Ecology at Yonsei University.

Hope and Happiness in Mothering and Fathering: What Can "Positive" Approaches in Home Economics Education Do?

Masako Ishii-Kuntz

Professor

Social Sciences and Family Studies, Ochanomizu University (Japan)

Abstract

Mothering and fathering practices in many contemporary societies have been influenced partly by the sociodemographic changes such as the delay in first marriage, a decline in fertility rate, a decrease in three-generational households, and an increase in women's labor force participation. With these changes, for example, fathers who used to play only a peripheral role in the family are now expected to be more active participants in child care and housework. Paternal involvement has also been increasingly encouraged not only by their spouses but also by the governments such as Japan and South Korea that are concerned with the lowering of the birthrates.

In my presentation, I will first describe how the demographic and socioeconomic changes affected mothering and fathering practices in contemporary societies. Further, I will explain how unique cultural values and practices are influencing parental sharing in some countries such as Japan, China, Korea, the U.S. and Sweden. Second, using "positive" sociological approach and showing various international data, I will describe how contemporary mothers and fathers share their parental responsibilities as well as their hope and happiness associated with the parental roles. Third, "positive" approaches in home economics education related to mothering and fathering will be discussed in light of how they can contribute to increase the awareness and practice of the equal parental sharing of child care and housework.

Biography

Masako Ishii-Kuntz, Ph.D. is Professor of Social Sciences and Family Studies at Ochanomizu University, Tokyo, Japan. Prior to her appointment at Ochanomizu, she taught sociology courses at the University of California, Riverside for 20 years. She is an author of many books and articles on parental involvement in child care and housework in Japan and the U.S. Her most recent solo-authored book, Sociology of Child Caring Men: In Search of Realizing Fathers' Involvement in Child Rearing (Minerva Publications), is the first-ever academic book that proposes "positive" sociological approach to study fathers' participation in child rearing.

She served as a special editor of the two volumes of Journal of Family Issues. More than 120 of her articles and reports appeared in such journals as Journal of Marriage and Family, Family Relations, Journal of Family Issues, and Sex Roles, among others. Her most recent research project funded by the Japan Society for the Promotion of Science examines the use of internet technologies and social media services in fathering, mothering and grandparenting practices in Japan, Korea, U.S. and Sweden. Since her return to Japan, she has been actively involved in advising the governmental committees to facilitate work-life balance among employed women and men.

She served on the boards of the Japan Sociological Society, Japan Society of Family Sociology and Council on Family Relations of Japan Society of Home Economics. Ishii-Kuntz is also an associate member of the Japan Science Council.

At the international level, she was a keynote speaker at the United Nations 2004 commemoration of the 10th anniversary of the International Year of the Family. She was also invited to participate in the 2008 United Nation's Expert Group Meeting that produced policy suggestions on the topic of equal sharing of responsibilities between women and men worldwide. In recognition of her contribution to the international research and teaching of family sociology, she received the 2012 Jan Trost Award of the National Council on Family Relations in Phoenix, Arizona.

Why GRIT is Important Especially for Children, Students and Parents?

Joohan Kim

Professor

Department of Communication, Yonsei University (Republic of Korea)

Abstract

GRIT is mental muscles, or non-cognitive capabilities. GRIT stands for "Growing through Relatedness, Intrinsic Motivation, and Tenacity" which represent interpersonal capacity, self-motivation capacity, and self-regulation capacity, respectively. Numerous studies have shown that stronger GRIT results in better.

Performances in the areas of, but not limited to, academy, education, sports, music, and emotion regulations. At the core of GRIT, lies self-respect, which mainly comes from the sense of self-worth, or belief in oneself's value and worthiness.

Love and care that one can get during childhood, usually from parents, childcare givers, siblings, and family, are the most importance sources of the sense of self-worth, and thus, of mental muscles and GRIT.

Biography

Professor Joohan Kim, Dean of Graduate School of Journalism and Mass Communication, has been teaching at the Communication Department of Yonsei University, since 1999. Before coming to Yonsei, he taught at the Department of Communication at Boston College as a tenure-track position Professor. He earned his doctoral degree at the Annenberg School for Communication at University of Pennsylvania.

His current major research topics includes social neuroscience, communication competence, mental muscles, non-cognitive capabilities, psychological resilience, and GRIT. He has published numerous research papers in scholarly journals, including Social Neuroscience, NeuroImage, Teaching in Higher Education, Social Psychiatry and Psychiatric Epidemiology, Journal of Communication, Communication Theory, Journalism and Mass Communication Quarterly, Political Communication, International Journal of Public Opinion Research, Computers in Human Behavior, Human Studies, Semiotica, and Psychological Reports.

He also authored national best-sellers such as Resilience and GRIT.

Working Together for Better Health - Act Local and Global

Ilona Kickbusch

Director

Global Health Centre, Graduate Institute Geneva (Switzerland)

Abstract

We live in a health society. Health is created in the context of our everyday lives: where we live, love, work, play, travel, shop and google. Health is also ever more important in the political, the economic and the social sphere. But health and well-being cannot be produced by one sector - it requires the whole of government to be committed to health.

Yet even that is not enough - the whole of society (individuals, communities, families, business, associations) needs to contribute to make our environments and our lifestyles more supportive of health. Especially business is challenged to ensure and promote healthy workplaces, environments and products. Health is determined by the resources we have at our disposal - the greatest threat to health are inequalities. Globalization, urbanization and commercialization significantly influence the choices we (can) make for health as does our level of health literacy. What does it take to make the healthier choice the easier choice for citizens - and health the political choice for decision makers? How does our local health link to global health? How can we jointly create a healthier planet? These issues will be raised and discussed - also with reference to the global agenda of the sustainable development goals SDGs.

Biography

Ilona Kickbusch is the Director of the Global Health Programme at the Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies, Geneva. She is senior advisor to the Regional Directors of the WHO Regional Offices for Europe and the Eastern Mediterranean. She has been deeply involved in the development of the Health 2020 European health policy framework. She is a member of the independent Ebola interim assessment panel of the WHO.

In Switzerland she serves on the executive board of the Careum Foundation and on the expert panel to the Federal Councillor to advice on the implementation of the Swiss Health Strategy 2020. She has contributed to innovation in health in many ways throughout her career and now advises organisations, government agencies and the private sector on policies and strategies to promote health at the national, European and international level. She has worked with the WHO at various levels and in academia as professor at Yale University. She has received honorary doctorates from the Nordic School of Public Health and the University of Girona.

She has published widely and is a member of a number of advisory boards in both the academic and the health policy arena. She has received many awards. Her key areas of work relate to Global Health Governance, Health Security, Public Health, Health Promotion, Health Literacy and Health in All Policies. She has a strong commitment to women's rights. WLB Issues and the Supporting Roles of Public Agencies in South Korea

Tae-seok Kim

President

Korean Institute for Healthy Family (Republic of Korea)

Abstract

Which comes first, work or family life?

Many Korean working women are plagued by this question. It is not easy to do both well. Many women start working to use what they studied in school and build their career but suffer from mental stress.

According to a recent (April 2015) survey conducted by Statistics Korea, the number of married women aged 15 – 54 who have experienced interrupted careers stood at 2.05 million, i.e., 21.8% of all married women (9.42 million). Their reasons for stopping working included marriage (36.9%), child care (29.9%), pregnancy/childbirth (24.4%), and family care (4.9%).

Many of the women who have gone through interrupted careers work as irregular workers to make a living, and their jobs are generally inferior to their previous jobs. It means that their potential is not fully utilized, which results in the drop of national competitiveness. Thus, it is necessary to come up with a step designed to make work and family life compatible by preventing interrupted careers experienced by women and encouraging them to take part in economic activities more positively. The government needs to promote a family policy focusing on compatibility of work and family life through efforts made to improve corporate culture and the view adopted by the general public.

For said goal, the government has adopted policies encouraging family-friendly management, husbands' temporary retirement for childcare, working couples, and provision of reliable childcare services. Public agencies need to set examples in adopting measures like these. The government has made it compulsory for all public agencies to undergo family-friendly certification since 2017.

Through such efforts, the workplace atmosphere is expected to be created in a way that is welcomed by employees' families, which in turn will help enhance the country's national competitiveness, with public agencies playing a leading role.

General Information

About Daejeon

About Republic of Korea and Daejeon

Republic of Korea is a nation that boasts of a fast growing economy and a lifestyle that perfectly combines the old and the new. Once known as a quiet nation in the East, the peninsula now hardly rests, pulsating with life and commerce. Several subsidiaries of international corporations and businesses as well as most western franchises can be found nationwide. Even in the face of modernity, however, Koreans still greatly value their 5 millennia of culture and history and Confucian philosophy that guided the lives of their ancestors. Its natural beauty combined with its unique cultural heritage (preserved for thousands of years) and amiable people make Korea an even more attractive place to visit. Many global events have taken place here annually including the 2002 FIFA Football World Cup and the APEC Summit 2005 to name a few.

Daejeon is called the "Middle City," as the city is at the center of South Korea. As a gateway to the Gyeongsang and Jeolla Provinces, Daejeon is 167.3 km from Seoul, 294 km from Busan and 169 km from Gwangju. Daejeon is where the Seoul-Busan Highway joins the Honam Highway, so the city is an important location in the nation's traffic system.

General Information

Weather

The climate of Korea is characterized by four distinct seasons: spring, summer, fall, and winter. Between the end of July and August is the real summer in Korea. The temperature is getting higher and humid and hot wind blows from the Pacific ocean. It rains in the small areas strongly and shortly often. The temperature is more than 30 degrees in the afternoon and for a couple of days the temperature does not get down at night.

Time Zone

The time in Korea is 9 hours ahead of the Greenwich Mean Time (GMT+9).

Currency

The basic currency of Korea is the Korean Won (KRW). Specifically, various notes and coins are used: Notes include 1,000 won, 5,000 won, 10,000 won, and 50,000 won denominations, while coins include 10 won, 50 won, 100 won, and 500 won denominations. Foreign bank notes and traveler's checks can be converted into Korean won at foreign exchange banks and other authorized money exchange outlets. The exchange rate is subject to market fluctuation.

Electricity

The power supply in Korea is 220-volt 60Hz system. It is recommended that you bring an international travel adaptor/power converter with you.

Credit Card

International credit cards, including VISA, American Express, Diners Club, MasterCard and JCB are widely accepted at major hotels, department stores, restaurants and retail outlets. It is advised to check with your credit card company for merchant acceptability and other services that may be available.
